I spent a year and 5 days at Sarichef from mid 1963 through mid 1964. Mt. Shishaldin began emitting smoke about a week before the big quake. Mt. Pogromni also lost some snow but nothing more while I was there. I am sure you guys remember Mary Ann, Reeves daughter. The only female we would see was when they brought in the mail. I now understand that someone made the plaque we had on the door into a patch. Anyone know where I might find one. I had only 45 minutes to get ready to leave and everyone was helping me to repack.

Forgot my work jacket with all my other patches. They have been replaced. Would REALLY like to get a Unimak Patch. Hope to hear from some of you guys. Best Wishes for the Holidays.

I served at Cape Sarichef Loran Station and Scotch Cap Light Station for 1 year in 1970. We had several Tidal Wave warnings and Earthquake Tremors while I was at the stations. The Bears at Scotch Cap were always trying to get in the doors and would dump the big trash cans looking for food. Good tour of duty. Glenn Wilkerson EN1 USCG-VET

In response to Bobby Wertis posting below, I have been searching for him since 1985 when his family first realized he was missing. I thought I had found him one day when a particularly fat Kodiak Bear ambled by looking quite full. I searched the old light station and realized once the liquor ran out, probably in 1987-88, Bobby probably lost the will to live and simply wandered off into the Tundra. It was geat to hear he was still out there. I plan to go back in few years and search for him again.

I got left behind during the closing of the station in 1979 and am still waiting for the USCG C-130 1501 to come get me. Eating mostly crab, salmon, and grub worms. Sometimes I snack on emergency rations in the shack on the way to Scotch Cap. I have filled three rooms with glass balls. At this point believe it or not when I wave to the bears they wave back. At times it's really lonely. Would love to hear from Joe B., Skipper, Scott, Tournas, Kenny Rat, Sam, Mike O, or anyone else who served from 1978-Present.
