Finally broke open the boxes of stuff from various tours and came up with gobs of things - hundreds of slides, rosters, org manual, belt buckles & lighters, Tundra Times, etc. Of more significance is the memories of some great folks who helped a boot JO a ton. Anyone from 3/74-3/75 around, drop a line. Doc Stieler is not answering up and wished he would!

Just a note to let people know Sam Bachar is still alive and kicking!!! He can be reached via Email at mkcsam@netscape.com... Sarichef... bears, eagles, whales, fox, whistle pigs, seals, caribou, salmon and some of the strangest looking fish in the ocean... What a place... I remember one SN walking along the beach and finding a "dead" walrus. He decided that he would break off the tusks for the Ivory. Well when he reached down to grab the tusk, that "dead" walrus woke up and roared at him. The SN just about XXXX his pants... Many bear stories also...

Also, trying to keep the two UniMog's going. The yellow one ran, but the red one was a goner! Jeez, what a time! Movies every night, and the special chair reserved for our favorite Lt(jg)USCG(R)!! Thanks Dave Cress, I look forward to viewing your patch. On another note, I have been in contact with a couple of people who visit Cape Sarichef and Scotch Cap during their studies of the volcanoes on Unimak Island. The buildings are still present at both locations. The USCG has hired contractors to clean up the sites of hazmat. They are also scheduled to meet the bulldozer soon. Cape Sarichef, buildings have been taken over by the bears. windows, doors etc.... in state of ruin. Scotch Cap is still mostly intact. A log book kept in the building notes approximately 12 visitors per year. Hope this will be of interest to some of you guys.

I was an ET3 for my year at Sarichef. One of the most intense and unforgetable years of my life. Chased by bears, Flash (Z) message warning for tidal wave, several gunshot accidents, 100+ mph winds, caribou hunting, finding artifacts, eating some 10 yr old steaks with shoe leather consistancy and grape juice so old the lining of the can came out in clumps, and witnessing some of the most unusual human behavior ever. Ever see 2 drunk guys fight over eating a raw dead whistle pig? Very glad I got to experience the amazing wildlife and scenery however. I have some good Sarichef photos on my website at www.brucegray.com.

The Great Alaska Earthquake happened just as I was kicking my feet up on a stool at the AF bar in '64. What a trip. CO had tropical fish, cook had 3 fingers, Roosevelt Mallory had a great smile, Tim Roach was the RM, Chris Percival, Borland, Mallory, Black, Henke, some of the great techs. Many rather exciting trips to Scotch Cap after the Beach changed shape past half way house. I only sunk one truck in the beach creeks, really, an hour before the creek was 18' deep, but on the way back it devoured the front R5D tires. Water running through the cab. Great Bears.
